

MOTHERS FAIL TO AID MODEL MOVIES

Special Day Program Held Last Week Fails to Bring Out Enough Children.

EFFORTS WILL CONTINUE

Attempt to Be Made to Interest Parents More in Good to Be Accomplished.

Failure on the part of the mothers of the District to actively co-operate in the "model movie" campaign is largely responsible for the small attendance of children at the special program pay matinees held during last week. This is the sentiment echoed by leaders of the organizations participating in the cleaner motion pictures for children campaign that has been carried on in the city during the past month and a half.

The attendance at the pay matinees Friday and Saturday fell considerably below the expectations of the women interested in the movement. Their efforts have not been daunted, however, and they are already laying plans for a continuance of the campaign through the churches and homes in event the efforts with the theater managers should fail.

Mothers Do Not Respond.
"We do not seem to have appealed to the mothers," said Mrs. J. J. Locher, chairman of the motion picture committee of the District Federation of Women's Clubs. "So far it seems they have not appreciated how important clean pictures are to their children, and to what extent they influence their young lives."

The last of the "model movie" matinees will be held this week in the twelve theaters that have participated in the campaign. The matinees to be held this coming Friday and Saturday will have a 5-cent admission fee, just as were those held Sunday and the day previous.

Women Are Hopeful.
The women interested in the movement are still hopeful that this week will prove more of a success.

"We have not given up hope," said Mrs. Locher. "Saturday was the day we depended upon, and it is easily realized how most of the children were downtown most of Saturday morning watching the Dewey funeral. By the time they had their lunch and had taken care of other Saturday tasks it was too late for them to attend the matinees in any great numbers."

"This week we are hopeful the tide will turn, and if it should not we are prepared to launch a more vigorous campaign. Until we get into direct touch with the mothers we cannot hope to accomplish much. If this week shows we still lack their co-operation we are already formulating plans to carry on the movement until we strike home.

"I know the mothers are with us, because I have received hundreds of telephone calls from mothers thanking me for the work. What we want to do is to live all the mothers up to the situation. It may be necessary to start a post card campaign to have every mother in the city pledge herself to support the campaign."

A meeting of the exhibitors and the organizations participating in the work will be held in the New Ebbitt House next Wednesday morning at which it is expected some arrangement will be reached for the future exhibition of especially selected program matinees for children.

TO MONTICELLO THIS WEEK

House Committee to Make Delayed Trip Within Few Days.

Members of the House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds will visit Monticello, once the home of Thomas Jefferson, during the present week.

The Saturday visit to Monticello was "called off" because of the desire of House members to attend the funeral of Admiral George Dewey. Congressman Frank Clark, chairman of the committee, said today the committee would visit Monticello "one day this week."

The House members will travel by special car attached to a regular train, and will spend a day at Monticello in connection with the bill proposing that the Government shall purchase and preserve Jefferson's home. Monticello is now owned by Jefferson Levy, of New York, a former member of the House, who has agreed to sell the estate for $500,000. The daughters of the American Revolution and other patriotic societies are urging the report of the bill for the purchase of Monticello.

'WALK TO WORK,' SAY HEALTH OFFICIALS

Is Panacea for All Ills, Dr. W. C. Woodward Declares.

COUNTRY RAMBLES IDEAL

Many Government Officials Put Advice Into Practice With Great Benefit.

"Walk to work." "It will help you to arrive at the office full of the 'old pep' and ready to tackle the job that confronts you. It's a panacea for all sorts of ills."

This advice is offered by officials of the Health Department. Health Officer W. C. Woodward is a strong advocate of the "walk-to-work" movement, which was started by Commissioner Haven Emerson, of the New York health department, and Dr. Charles F. Boulduan, head of the Bureau of Public Health Education.

Dr. Woodward advises an occasional sprint for younger men. "It helps to clear out the lungs and puts a man in condition," he declared. "Walking is one of the best of exercises. I walk whenever I have the opportunity, and would do more if I had the time."

Country Rambles Ideal.

Walking, health officials declare, should appeal strongly to Washingtonians for the reason that not only the city itself but the surrounding country offers a series of delights. Rambles will find any number of interesting places within a radius of ten miles of the Capitol and ten miles is only a stroll for a man who enjoys walking.

Those unaccustomed to the exercise, however, are warned not to overtax their strength. Better, the physicians say, to begin by easy stages and lengthen the walks as you become hardened. Particular care of the feet is urged. Be sure, they urge, to have easy shoes, preferably a pair that has been worn for several weeks.

W. C. Hibbs Enthusiastic Hiker.

Among Washington's advocates of walking is Waldo C. Hibbs, inspector for the Excise Board. When Mr. Hibbs has a holiday he starts out on a walk of twenty miles or so and returns feeling as invigorated as when he began. Mr. Hibbs achieved a reputation as a pedestrian some years ago and has traveled afoot over every square mile in the District as well as portions of Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia.

Walking, it was pointed out by Mr.

Hibbs today, costs nothing, and yet not all of us can afford it. To many men, especially during the busy hours of the day, time is more than money. And yet, he says, if you walked to work every morning figure what the savings would amount to in a year. Not an inconsequential amount to add to the Christmas fund.

Weston Cited as Example.

As an example of what walking will do for a man local health officials point to Edward Payne Weston, whose reputation as a pedestrian is country-wide. Weston, when he was twenty-seven, walked from Portland, Me., to Chicago, and just forty years later covered the same ground in twenty-nine hours less time, finishing with a step as elastic as when he began.

Some of the men who accompanied Weston became so exhausted from exposure to the cold that they were left behind, but the walker strode along at an easy gait and without effort.

Other notables enjoyed walking. Samuel Johnson, despite his scrofula, journeyed afoot through the Hebrides. Oliver Goldsmith for years was a wayfarer through Europe. Mark Twain walked many miles through London. Lillian Langtry, in her prime, thought nothing of a twenty-mile jaunt.

The doctors say follow their example. "If you are accustomed to riding down every morning get up some morning half an hour earlier and walk," they advise. "You will be so pleased with the beneficial results that you will repeat the experiment and it will soon become a healthful habit."

IS OPPOSED TO RELIGION

Real Socialism, Says Speaker, Antagonistic to All Creeds.

Moses Baritz, of Manchester, England, in an address yesterday afternoon before the Washington Secular League at Pythian Temple, made the statement that true socialism is antagonistic to all forms of religion. In explaining his statement Mr. Baritz said that it is based upon the proposition that religions are irreconcilable with the economic interpretations of history upon which rests the basis of socialist philosophy.

Other speakers at the meeting were E. C. Keyser, Samuel Saloman, Mr. Wolfberg, Evangelist Green, Mr. A. Senblatt, David Eccles, Dr. James Hugh Keeley, and John D. Bradley, president of the league.

MAY PLACE EXCISE PROBE BEFORE JURY

Testimony in Department of Justice Inquiry Kept Secret.

HEARINGS WILL CONTINUE

May Summon Witnesses Here to Tell How Licenses Were Procured.

Interest regarding the testimony given by certain witnesses at the Department of Justice investigation of Washington excise conditions, was further increased today when it became known that much of the testimony obtained is likely to be placed before the grand jury at the conclusion of the hearings.

Keep Evidence Secret.

The nature of the testimony being obtained by the Federal department has been kept secret, also the identity of a majority of the witnesses.

The scope of the investigation may be broadened, it was understood today, and it may become necessary to summon witnesses from other cities to come here and testify as to what they know about the saloon business and the manner of obtaining licenses in Washington.

No Names Divulged.

A. Bruce Bielaski, chief of the bureau of investigation, today declined to divulge anything concerning what the department's actions would be. He said that he had hoped that the investigation would be completed last week. He intimated, however, that it would be at least another week before all of the witnesses wanted, will be able to give their testimony. Mr. Bielaski would not give an idea as to the nature of the testimony, nor of the persons whose names are involved.
